Early Disease Detection & Disease Prevention in Primary Care

Symposium Description

AFPPANP's Early Disease Detection and Disease Prevention in Primary Care Symposium will span 5 days and provide instruction in multiple practice areas. The Symposium will offer a wide array of topics to help your better evaluate, treat, and manage patients in your practice. Acquire best practices on relevant clinical topics, including obesity and diabetic management, fibromyalgia, osteoporosis, concussions, PCOS, hormone therapy, opioid use and more.

Symposium Objectives

Upon conclusion of this program participants should be able to:

- Apply the most current treatment strategies to common chronic medical conditions provided in recent clinical guideline updates
- Recognize effective interventions leading to reduction of adverse effects of existing chronic conditions and prevention of additional comorbidities
- Employ practice relevant new research in their everyday patient encounters to improve mortality and morbidity of common chronic medical conditions
- Recognize when to refer to or consult with other specialists to provide optimal patient care

Target Audience

Healthcare practitioners including Physician Assistants and Nurse Practitioners interested in updating their knowledge in the most current guidelines of early disease detection and prevention.
